

THE COLT

JANUARY, 1940

TOMORROW

When we are paving the toiled road through tomorrow,
And all the golden bricks are fruits of each life's task;
If we've all given, little though it may have been
What need have we to hide beneath a dissembling mask?

As the softly whis'pring curtain of tomorrow's night,
Blots out the fading rainbowed rays of a dying sun;
Will you gaze back content o'er that way-wearied road,
With sighing happiness to know your share is done?

—Mary Ratering.

THE COLT

*The Classbook of the Graduates of
January, 1940*

Central High School, as such, has existed only fourteen years. The building was erected in 1909, and was known as Paterson High School. It housed, at one time, both Central and East-side High Schools with separate boys' and girls' sessions. Since the very beginning, however, the Colt emblem was adopted to symbolize the school, partially because the building stood upon Colt Hill, the former home of the famous Colt family. For this reason the Senior Class of January, 1940, has adopted the Colt and all that it represents as a fitting theme for its year book.

IN APPRECIATION

We, the January Class of 1940, wish to take this opportunity of expressing our sincerest gratitude and deepest appreciation to:

Mr. Manley and Mr. Folley for their generous advice and understanding sympathy.

Miss Baeurle and Mr. Elliot, our advisers, for their affability and untiring efforts in making our class one of which we may be proud.

Miss Schneider for her supreme patience while teaching us our musical selections.

Mr. Scowcroft, Mrs. Claxon, Miss Pinney, and Mr. Maxwell for their invaluable guidance in publishing our classbook.

Mr. Kelley and his assistants for their willingness to help whenever they were needed.

The Quackenbush Company's Photography Department for its craftsmanship in taking pictures for us, and for its never-failing courtesy.

The underclassmen for their whole-hearted and enthusiastic support of our activities.

Our parents for their many sacrifices, their understanding, and aid, and for the shining example of honorable manhood and womanhood which they have set for us.

MR. JOSEPH F. MANLEY
Principal

Congratulations and Best Wishes to the Class of January, 1940

Sincerely,

Joseph F. Manley

CLASS WILL

We, the class of January, 1940, and we do mean CLASS, knowing full well that we are neither physically nor mentally sound, with premeditation and malice toward some, hereby bequeath the following as our last will and testament:

To Mr. Manley, our beloved friend and counselor, we leave our most sincere gratitude and deepest appreciation for his never-failing helpfulness in times of need.

To Mr. Folley, we leave our heartfelt thanks for his ever-ready advice and kind words.

To our faculty advisers, Miss Baeurle and Mr. Elliot, we leave patented headache remedies.

David Mahaffey leaves his ability to keep order at Senior meetings to the next president.

"Lee" Beam leaves the pleasant duties of the vice-president to the next vice-president.

Lois Cleaver leaves the thought that "The pen is mightier than the sword" to the next secretary.

Ray Paolillo leaves the eternal problem of collecting dues to the next treasurer.

Our editor, Eileen Spinosa, leaves all the headaches and joys of assembling the classbook to the next editor.

"Dick" Vandermade leaves his monthly copy of "Esquire" to all undergrads who like his taste.

The Senior girls leave their broken mirrors to their lockermates.

The cooking class leaves its savory (?) smells throughout the building.

Mr. Burke's students leave the "lab" in peace. Or should we say "pieces."

Charles Sheldon leaves his shoes to future errand boys.

To all admiring girls, Victor Kolanko leaves his fiery red hair.

Eleanor Keastead leaves her quietness to Laura Crouch.

Jack Noll just leaves—about time!

To the janitors we leave 81,564 wads of gum. (On the other sides of desks and seats.)

Irma "I put the bark in" Barker leaves her vocal chords to the first six cheerleaders to grab them.

Elmer Goetschius leaves his athletic prowess to Ted Bland.

Kay Mowell, Eileen Spinosa, and Shirley Ross leave their midnight oil for other would-be poets to burn freely.

Frieda Stengel leaves her incessant chatter to Shirley Pantel.

Anne Foley leaves her golden voice at Miss Schneider's disposal.

Agnes Van Houten and Frank Trainor leave their hands to future hand-holding aspirants.

Doris Whitefleet leaves her good taste in dress to Muriel Radice.

Nathan Leizerowitz leaves his boisterousness to anyone who wants it.

Stella Dobrowolska leaves her name to whoever can spell it.

Bill Garrison leaves his dancing feet to Ed Murphy.

Anna Hay leaves her infectious giggle to anyone who can duplicate it.

Duly witnessed and sealed by our very best "wacks." (No pun intended.)

REMEMBER HOW -- -- --

- Grace Spedding was forced to stand in the corner? (It was really Lanell Turner's fault.)
- Lois Cleaver blushed when she fell down the stairs?
- Irma Barker ate everyone's sweet pickles?
- We had to run from the third floor of the annex to the third floor of the main building?
- The girls on "A" line were envied?
- Anna Hay giggled?
- Beryl Herrington blushed when her friends (?) supplied the mistletoe and Bill?
- Harry Gradwell boasted of his ability to do the "Baltimore Bubble"? (We haven't seen him do it yet.)
- Arnold Schindel took pictures when his "victims" were not aware of the fact?
- Crowded our first Senior dance was?
- Lillian Krauskopf explained the "art" of blushing? (Claimed she read all about it in a magazine.)
- The girls haunted Mr. Kelly for lockers?
- "Marge" Barrow described the undertakers' convention?
- Mary Ratering was "tried for witchcraft" by the English 7 class?
- Phyllis Hamer wore the hat with the sprinkling can on it? (To water the flowers of course.)
- The girls laundered their gym suits every week? (That was before they knew any better.)
- "Dot" Emaus sank to the floor when someone touched her ribs?
- Jimmie Woods played the part of a newlywed?
- Ruth Livingston described the "other Senior meetings I went to"?
- Friendly Ralph Langieri was?
- Proud we were when we became 1-2's?
- Freely the Literary Editors used poetic license?
- Conspicuous the absence of boys in classes was the day hunting season began?
- Easily Joe Medici blushed at the slightest glance from a girl?
- Teachers tried to get Fannie Knapp to talk when called on and not otherwise?
- Tony Pappalardo wore those yellow shoes?
- Adept Ira Lipstein was at ping-pong?
- Miss Schneider tried to quiet us exuberant Seniors at singing practice?
- Dan Block had the senior meeting in "stitches" every time he mentioned "blue, black or oxford grey"?

An Open Letter to the Board of Education From the Bored of Education

To the Board of Education
We address this little ditty,
Hoping that in the future
On the students you'll take pity.
To grant our last requests
Will not be a great task,
And school will be a paradise
If you'll do what we ask.

Charles Sandford wants a radio in every class.
Dot Hart declares, "Everyone should pass."
Lanell Turner thinks the school is grand,
But the gum 'neath the seats is second-hand.
Harold Marino wants the bannisters waxed.
Gabe Mosca entreats, "No more syntax."
Bertha Payne wishes we had an hour for lunch.
(We guess she's one who likes to munch.)
Fred Eshak demands a softer seat.
Beryl Herington begs, "Give us more heat!"
"Abolish homework," cries Verna Dinger.
Harold Steines objects to any red "ringer."
Orlando Leprotto wants a siesta.
(Betty Froio would prefer fiesta.)
"Let us look out the windows!" begs Elva Simone,
And in this request she's not alone.
"Too many subjects." Mike Kerestes tells his woes.
"We need more holidays," Irv Cohen knows.
John Donald says, "Five days a week off."
(Now, now, it's not polite to scoff.)
Neil Keyser cries, "A dancing tutor."
Grace Spedding claims more play would suit 'er.
Dot Emaus complains, "Textbooks are so fat."
(Doesn't every student think just that?)
Grace Harris petitions, "Have school start later."
Florence Ferrier sighs for an escalator.
Bill Meier says we should have a new gym,
And undergrads agree with him.

Just take a look around the school
And you can plainly see
From Senior down to Freshman
The students all agree.
So, dear Board of Education,
As the changes are so few
And would be so satisfactory,
What do you intend to do?

by Allin Funn.

SPORTS

GIRLS' SPORTS

The graduating class is justly proud of the outstanding group of athletes in its midst. Sports provide physical and mental relaxation, encourage a competitive spirit, and emphasize the necessity of teamwork, so essential in later life. Under the very able guidance of Miss Bishop, Mrs. Cappio, and Mrs. Jenkinson, our senior girls have become adept in various sports, and, most important of all, have learned the true meaning and value of good sportsmanship.

EDITH JORDAN

Edith has the highest number of points in the class, points earned by all-star ratings in almost every sport.

BASEBALL

FOOTBALL

BOYS' SPORTS

ALBERT ANTONUCCI

Baseball '38, '39

In his two years of varsity baseball, "Tick" has won the hearts of his fellow students through his ability on the diamond and all around good nature in school.

ROGER ASAY

Football '37, '38, '39

Ace, quiet and serious, played hard, reliable, and consistent football. Unfortunately he was also a center and therefore an understudy to reliable Mike Kerestes who was about tops at that position. Even at that, Ace saw plenty of action which will be long remembered by bruised opponents.

RALPH DI MARCANTONIO

Football '37, '38, '39

Ralph is another of the small players on the squad, weighing only 145 pounds. He gained a place on the all-county team in 1938. He is again headed for this berth. At his guard position he receives a number of lateral passes only because he is one of the fastest men on the football squad.

WILLIAM FENNERS

Basketball '38, '39

Bill is that tall red-headed chap whose consistent playing proved to be more than enough of a help in paving the way for Central's championship basketball team. He was also a sure bet on the mound for the baseball team.

WILLIAM GARRISON

Football '37, '38, '39

Now a word about Skip, whose grim determination of his football days won him a spot on the football squad for two years and a varsity position his last year. In the beginning of the season, Skip broke his hand which ended his career very abruptly.

ELMER GOETSCHUIS

Football '37, '38, '39

Elmer started as a reserve half-back in '37, then to a reserve end in '38, finally he wound up as varsity center in '39. His rugged defensive play and offensive blocking played an important factor in helping his teammates subdue their opponents. He was called on to play center for the first time in his football career, this position being considered the hardest and most important position to perfect. Elmer did an admirable job of filling All-State Mike Kerestes' shoes.

FRED HEMSEY

Football '37, '38, '39

Baseball '36, '37, '38

Fred is one of the few athletes in Central who have won their varsity letter in three or more varsity sports. A fine fellow on the sport field and just as fine in his social activities, Fred is a good all around athlete.

MICHAEL KERESTES

Football '35, '36, '37, '38

Ranking along with the great Gabe, Mike has brought many all state ratings to the center position of the Central grid machine. His ability to block as well as center will certainly fill the dreams of some college coach who is looking for a pivot man.

ALBERT LA COUTURE

Football '37, '38, '39

Al is just another one of those line-men who make the backfield look good, but don't get any praise for themselves. He tackles just as hard as he blocks and has caused many worries for the opposition since he has been playing.

BOYS' SPORTSDAVID LEISHMANBasketball '37, '38, '39*

Dave was a member of Central's basketball team for three years. His alert, calm play at forward steadied the team considerably. Besides being an ideal player, Dave has the qualities necessary for leadership. His teammates recognized this fact and during his last full season of play, elected Dave captain.

JAMES MORRIS*Basketball '37, '38, '39*

Starting early as a forward on Central's basketball team, Jimmy developed into a fine center. Although not an outstanding scorer on the basketball team, Jimmy's great defensive play was more than enough to make him known and appreciated.

GABE MOSCA*Football '38, '39Basketball '37, '38, '39*

Our hats are off to one of the greatest athletes who has ever had the important task of carrying the colors of this institution. Announcements of his constant all state ratings proves to us that Gabe is an important link in our chain of athletics.

ANTHONY PARUTA*Football '37, '38, '39*

Tony was one of the smallest players on the team. This did not prevent him from being one of the best and hardest blockers of the State. Tony very seldom carried the ball, but when he did he usually made the amount of yardage needed.

HAROLD STEINES*Golf '37, '38, '39*

Harold was an outstanding factor on the golf team whose consistent playing proved to be more than enough of a help in winning high honors for the Central Golf Team.

CHARLES TIESSEN*Swimming '37, '38, '39*

Chuck swam the hundred yard freestyle and led off the Colt freestyle relay team. During his second year on the team, he began to swim the backstroke but gave it up to continue in freestyle. Due to the shortage of meets during the 1938-39 season, Chuck didn't make a letter.

FRANK TRAINOR*Golf '37, '38, '39*

Vernon Warner introduced Chub to the game and the team. In the 1939 season Frank played 85 per cent of the matches, helping the J. V.'s win the county championship.

EMIL TROMBINO*Golf '36, '37, '38, '39*

Emil Trombino, Central's Bobby Jones, started golf in 1936 and has played in scholastic matches and tournaments till 1939 with a record worth knowing about. In 1938 he was the most important factor, helping his team finish second in the Scholastic State Championship, and also finishing second individually. He was captain for two years, '38-'39. He did not consider himself the winner until the final put was in the cup. Captain Emil was estimated as the most scientific golfer in the State. Central will miss him tremendously.

ROCCO URCIUOLI*Baseball '39*

All Rocco needed was one year of playing varsity baseball for the "Colt Hill team" to show us that he is very worthy of carrying on the traditions of the "Red and Black." A very able athlete like Rocco will be long remembered in Central.
